Two-Day International Conference on “Trans-Himalayan Borderlands: Dynamics of Connectivity, Culture and Change” 25-26 February, 2025

Centre of Central Asian Studies
University of Kashmir
Srinagar

The Trans-Himalayan region, encompassing the borderlands of South Asia, Central Asia, and East Asia, represents a unique geographical and cultural corridor of immense historical significance. These borderlands, shaped by rugged terrains and shared ecosystems, have long been zones of interaction facilitating trade, cultural exchange, migration, and political negotiations. From the ancient Silk Road to modern geopolitical alignments, the region has evolved as a vibrant interface between diverse communities, traditions, and states.

However, contemporary developments ranging from climate change and resource extraction to shifting geopolitical interests and border tensions are reshaping the region's dynamics. These changes raise critical questions about the nature of connectivity, identity, governance, and sustainability in the Trans-Himalayan borderlands.

The conference seeks to explore the complex interplay of history, culture, environment, and geo-politics in the Trans-Himalayan borderlands. By bringing together scholars, policymakers, and practitioners from diverse disciplines, the event aims to foster dialogue on the region's past, present, and future, emphasizing collaborative solutions for sustainable development and peaceful coexistence. The conference will address the following thematic areas:

1. Historical Networks
2. Archaeological & Cultural Landscape
3. Environment and Sustainability
4. Geopolitics and Security
5. Development and Livelihoods
6. Cultural Resilience and Adaptation
